

DEVELOPING SKILLS WITH THE MAIN DATABASES OF OUR LIBRARY

THE TWO MOST IMPORTANT DATABASES
IN OUR LIBRARY ARE LIRN AND EBRARY.

LIRN (LIBRARY AND INFORMATION RESOURCES NETWORK)

LIRN includes Online Periodicals and more: elibrary (a comprehensive digital archive for information seekers, which includes hundreds and hundreds of full-text periodicals, nine international newswires, classic books, hundreds of maps, thousands of photographs, as well as, major works of literature, art, and reference), InfoTrac (a database of magazine and journal indexes including over 1,800 full-text magazines, available online, which includes index entries, abstracts, and in most cases, the complete articles from magazines and journals) and ProQuest (an interdisciplinary database representing titles found in ABI INFORM, Periodicals and Newspaper Abstracts), as well as, LexisNexis (which includes Shepard's Citations, broadcast transcripts, international news, and non-English language sources), among others.

- ebrary is an online digital library with full text of over 170,000 scholarly and classic e-books.

It provides a set of online database collections that draw from over 435 academic, trade, and professional publishers.
